Leaves Coat On Span—Reported To Be Middle Aged, Print Dress

City police received a rush call to the high level bridge shortly before 2 p.m. on a report that a woman had jumped off the high level bridge to the river, for 150 feet below. G. F. Martin, manager of the Wilson Stationery Company, Limited, telephoned to police at 183 station he had seen the woman lying on the ice under the middle of the bridge, she had left a black coat hanging on the railing.

Apparently no one had seen the actual death leap, and when police constables H. Lytle and R. Hughes responded to the call they were unable to find anything on the woman's person which would identify her. The body was found about medium weight and having black hair tinged with gray.

She wore a plain gold wedding ring, black coat, black cotton-floored printed black and white scarf. A young woman told police she had passed this woman on the bridge and noticed she was walking slowly. She turned around later and could not see her, but had no idea she had jumped from the bridge.

C. C. Trudelle, 1107 10th avenue, told police he was driving north on the bridge about 1:40 p.m. and noticed the coat on the sidewalk. He left his car and saw the woman's body on the ice on the east side of the bridge. Her hair and scarf were lying about 25 feet away.

When police got down to the river they found the woman dead. She had apparently struck the ice almost face down. Her right arm and leg were badly crushed.

President's Advisers Told End Of Air Attack Immunity Of U. S. In Sight

WASHINGTON, March 8.—President Roosevelt's recommendation today that a reciprocal congress that the United States army air corps be tripled without delay reflected the firm judgment of his military advisers that the end of America's immunity for aerial attack is in sight.

If 10, five or even three years hence, the United States should be involved in a world war, there would be a real peril to popular opinion, they believe, from the bombers launched from enemy land or floating bases, or from Europe.

"Do you believe Desfosses has the seventh son?" asked Crown Prosecutor Drolet.

"Yes I do," the priest replied.

"Do you believe Desfosses has powers from the devil?"

"No, but it is beyond my comprehension," answered Father Leguerrier.

The priest was called as a defence witness.

Two Years Building

The 3,500-odd additional warplanes in the emergency armory built approved by congress will require a full two years to build, it was estimated. Once acquired, the air corps would have 6,000 planes.

The United States' huge army, the necessity of protecting the Panama canal and the Monroe doctrine's promise of aid for other American nations, all pose one of the world's knottiest aerial defence problems.

The navy's warships and patrol planes meet the outer line. To meet the necessity of keeping the Panama canal and the Monroe doctrine's promise of aid for other American nations, all pose one of the world's knottiest aerial defence problems.

Former Premier Is Under Arrest As Conspirator

BAGDAD, Iraq, March 8.—Former Premier Sikist Bay Sulaiman, 80 army officers and a number of opposition leaders were under arrest last night as ringleaders of a plot to overthrow the Iraq government.

The would-be rebellion was fomented by officers attached to the camp at Rashid. The alleged ringleaders were arrested today. Military court was set up to try suspects.

CITY REFUSES
TAKE VOUCHER
OF TREASURY

Finance Committee Suggests Province Make Offer In Writing

Request of A. G. Olive, superintendent of Alberta government treasury branches, that the city could refund treasury vouchers, was turned down by the city finance committee at a meeting Wednesday.

The committee voted unanimously to recommend to the council that the government be asked to submit in writing a confirmation of an offer, made by Mr. Olive, that the city could refund treasury vouchers at certain balancing periods of the usual two per cent discount charge on ordinary citizens.

Coupled with this recommendation, made by Ald. E. Brown and adopted by the committee, is the proposal that commissioners ask the province to exchange city-owned Alberta bonds for province-owned city bonds. This was suggested as a condition on which the city might consider the credit branch voucher proposal.

PROVINCIAL CITIZENS
Mr. Olive, who declared to Ald. Hugh John Macdonald, committee chairman, that he was not in his official capacity as an alderman of the provincial government, was accompanied by Guy Patterson and Eliza Best, both former Social Credit aldermen, who said they were appearing as private citizens, "on behalf of the people." A. W. Huggins, of the Progress Social Credit group, also appeared.

Mr. Olive asked the city to co-operate with the province in the acceptance of credit branch vouchers as a convenience to the 1,500 persons and businesses involved.

ONTARIO GROUP
PLANS EXPLORE
NAHANNI FIELD

Northern Ontario mining interests are going to make another attempt to explore the much-talked-of placer gold fields of the Nahanni river in the Northwest Territories.

With a capital stock of $300,000, shares of no par value, the Lard Nahanni Gold Placers Limited has been incorporated by Georges Bileau, treasurer; Mr. Wilfrid D. Poirer, president; and Carl Joseph Poirer, mechanical engineer. The two first named are of the village of Val Gagne, in the Timmins area, and Poirer is located in Timmins.

The company is to purchase, lease or otherwise acquire mining rights and land in the Nahanni River area, and headquarters are in Timmins, Ontario.

Many stories have been told of the richness of the Nahanni river as a placer mining field, and of the course which is alleged to have resulted in several different mining men among mining men who have ventured into the inhospitable area.

well known Alberta historian and secretary-manager of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce. He will address Robertson Church at their supper meeting in the church, March 16.

The Inquiring
Reporter

"What is your favorite way of wasting time?" asked The Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter.

Here are the comebackers: MINNIE KRUSE, soda fountain attendant, if I have a little time to waste I like to hear a few good jokes and get some laughs.

EVANS MOORE, salesman: My favorite time-waster is sleeping. I don't count anything and I expect it to get me into trouble while I'm doing it.

EVELYN LANE, business girl: I'm asking this afternoon. That is a pretty pleasant way of putting it. I don't expect I'll be able to get you intelligent answers, but I'm stumped now.

ISLA BRANDON, salaried: Reading is a form of diversion that appeals to me, though I don't have much time for it. I seem to be busy most of the time but perhaps some of it is wasted.

BILL NIXON, salesman: Well, I'm asking this afternoon. That is a pretty pleasant way of putting it. I don't expect I'll be able to get you intelligent answers, but I'm stumped now.

VERNA JOHNSTON, clerk: I'll tell you a waste of time, but my love I love it.

GEORFFREY HARRIS, salesman: I read books on economics and statistics. It's a waste of time because I don't understand them.

SYD SUTHERLAND, businessman: I'm doing it now. Don't tell anyone.
